What are Learn and Earn Crypto Programs?

Have you ever wondered how to profit from Bitcoin? Are you interested in making money by watching videos? Earning cryptocurrency simply for educating yourself about it may seem too wonderful to be true, but it's not.

What is the purpose of these "learn to earn" initiatives?

To promote numerous exchanges and different cryptocurrencies. Binance, Coinbase, and the majority of the other major centralized exchanges all have learn and earn programs. In the event that you do begin trading cryptocurrency, they provide a modest incentive to have you utilize their platform.

On top of that, they can team up with various cryptocurrency projects to offer specialized modules where you can learn about a new coin or token and even earn a little bit of that token for free. This, similar to an airdrop, enhances the coin's initial trading volume, spreads the word about it, and decentralizes ownership from the inventors.

I've compiled a list of the top 10 learn and earn crypto programs that you can find online now.

Best Learn and Earn Crypto Programs Reviewed

1. Binance Learn and Earn

Binance offers a fantastic learn and earn crypto program, earning them the title of biggest crypto exchange in the world. Under some circumstances, you can earn cryptocurrency on Binance as you learn. New Binance members are the only ones eligible to participate in the learn and earn program, and since the exchange doesn't necessarily have a live learn and earn campaign going, you'll need to check back frequently to catch one. While Binance's program is always being updated with new and popular coins, below are a few tokens and coins that were available in the past:

Be warned, though: in order to receive your cryptocurrency, many of Binance's learn and earn programs have additional prerequisites. In order to participate in the learn and earn program, you may be required to purchase a certain quantity of cryptocurrency in addition to taking a brief quiz. There's no need to stress if you don't intend to put up your own money; the specifics of each campaign dictate this. Instead of investing or trading a certain volume, other cryptocurrency campaigns may ask participants to share a social media post. New learn and earn campaigns are announced on the Binance blog often, so be sure to check back for updates.

3. Coinbase Learn and Earn

Among new cryptocurrency users, the Coinbase learn and earn program continues to rank among the highest. It was one of the first programs of its kind in the United States. It's a fantastic choice for crypto users all over the globe because it's available in over 100 countries. As an incentive for trading, it teaches users about the cryptocurrencies that Coinbase is hoping they'll use, and then gives them tokens for those altcoins.

The screenshot shows the Coinbase website's 'Learn and Earn' section. At the top, the Coinbase logo is on the left, and navigation links for 'Explore', 'Learn', 'Individuals', 'Businesses', 'Developers', and 'Company' are in the center. On the right, there are 'Sign In' and 'Sign Up' buttons. Below the navigation, there are two course cards. The first card is for 'NEAR Protocol NEAR', featuring a blue background with a central 'N' logo and four icons (gear, lightbulb, document, and person) connected by lines. The text describes NEAR as a simple, secure, and scalable blockchain. A 'Start course' button is on the left, and 'Earn $3 NEAR' is on the right. The second card is for 'SHPING SHPING', featuring a blue background with a central 'Sh' logo and five icons (shopping cart, person, smartphone, person, and person) arranged in a circle. The text describes Shping as a shopping companion app. A 'Start course' button is on the left, and 'Earn $3 SHPING' is on the right.

Learn the ins and outs of the Near Protocol and the SHPING dApp and earn $3 worth of NEAR and $3 worth of SHPING, respectively, this month to trade. About once a month, Coinbase announces new coins for you to learn about. Each month, you have the chance to earn around $6 worth of new crypto tokens. In most classes, we go over the latest Coinbase listings.

The time required to finish each course is approximately 10 minutes, and upon completion, you will be required to demonstrate your knowledge by passing an exam. You have the option to either keep your tokens in your Coinbase account or transfer them to a wallet that you control.

5. CoinGecko Learn and Earn

Like one of our learn-and-earn programs mentioned before, CoinGecko is an impartial data collector for cryptocurrencies. It follows over 12,000 coins across 600 exchanges. You can earn rewards by watching videos and completing missions on the CoinGecko study and earn program. New and updated courses are added on a regular basis, but here are a few examples of what's available:

The image shows a banner for the CoinGecko 'Learn and Earn' program. On the left, there is an illustration of a green gecko sitting on a yellow chair, looking at a laptop. The laptop screen displays a green interface with various cryptocurrency icons, including Bitcoin (BTC), Litecoin (LTC), and Ethereum (ETH). To the right of the illustration, the text reads 'Learn and Earn Cryptocurrency' in a large, dark font. Below this, a smaller line of text says: 'Make sure you don't get left behind the cryptocurrency race. Get ahead instead and learn all about what the future of cryptocurrency and blockchain has in store for you.' At the top left of the banner is the CoinGecko logo, and at the top right are links for 'Learn & Earn', 'Terms & Conditions', and 'FAQ'.
