What is a Shitcoin?

Most shitcoins are just there to be speculated about and their value will rise, but they don't really perform anything useful. Meme coins, which are created and circulated by celebrities and gain popularity through hype, are decentralized digital currencies that reside on the blockchain.

Typically, shitcoins are low-cap cryptocurrencies with a large supply in circulation. There are coins that deflationarily reduce their supply through token burns, therefore this criterion isn't always applicable.

5 Best Shitcoins to Buy in 2024

Shitcoins have repeatedly shown to be a successful investment and marketing tactic, despite their lack of practicality. Choosing profitable initiatives and knowing when to cash out can be challenging, though. Their marketing, hype, and celebrity endorsements are major factors in making them the greatest shitcoins to buy.

Learn more about the top shitcoins and where to get them by taking a closer look at this article.

1. Pepe Unchained (PEPU) - The Top Shitcoin for Quick and Cheap Transactions

Pepe Unchained ($PEPU) is a Pepe-themed currency that was constructed on Ethereum's layer-two (L2) blockchain. It is one of the finest shitcoins to buy in 2024. Built on top of the current blockchain, L2 networks aid in scalability and cost reduction. For this reason, the $PEPU token holders of Pepe Unchained can look forward to better transaction speeds and lower gas expenses.

Reduced gas fees and operational costs are a result of fewer transactions, as the L2 network offloads them. As a result, Pepe Unchained can provide token holders with dynamic and high-staking rewards. The current yearly yield for $PEPU token holders is about 236% on this shitcoin. Staking pools will distribute 30% of the 8 billion tokens in circulation. We are now distributing 20% of the supplies through the presale.

Presale funds for Pepe Unchained have surpassed $8.27 million as of this writing. Delve more into this meme coin by perusing the Pepe Unchained whitepaper and becoming a member of the Telegram channel.

2. Shiba Shootout (SHIBASHOOT) - The Premier Shitcoin with an Emphasis on Community Development and Practicality

The enticing perks that Shiba Shootout offers to early adopters make it one of the top shitcoins to invest in right now. First things first: the token is now in the presale, and when it launches on tier-1 cryptocurrency exchanges, its price is projected to rise. But the project's actual utility makes Shiba Shootout a top shitcoin to invest in. When compared to other shitcoins, $SHIBASHOOT claims to have practical characteristics that will motivate people to talk about it.

The Shiba Shootout project has staking, a referral scheme, a lottery program, token governance, and campfire sessions, as stated in its whitepaper. When implemented together, these plans will give $SHIBASHOOT a leg up in the market and reward early adopters handsomely. If you want to know more, check out our buying Shiba Shootout guide.

Even more importantly, the coin has a transparent roadmap that reveals the project's intentions in great detail. In a similar vein, the distribution of $SHIBASHOOT shitcoin may be understood through its transparent tokenomics.

4. Base Dawgz (DAWGZ) – Ethereum, BSC, Solana Shitcoin, Avalanche, and New Base

In 2024, keep an eye on Base Dawgz, a promising new shitcoin. Among meme coins, this one distinguishes out thanks to its canine mascot, who can hop between blockchains. Active community members can earn points that can be turned into $DAWGZ tokens using the share-to-earn scheme, which is a significant feature. Furthermore, if a referee buys $DAWGZ through your link, you will receive 10% of their purchase.

In an effort to expand its impact, the project has set aside 15% of its entire token supply for marketing purposes. The robust support for shitcoins with a canine theme helps Base Dawgz. The $DAWGZ token has a lot of promise, with a market cap of $1.78 billion for Base meme coins, which are the most valuable.

The $DAWGZ presale is now live and accepting BNB, ETH, USDC, USDT, SOL, and AVAX as payment. In order to compensate those that invested early, the token price will rise on a recurring basis. Base Dawgz has a whitepaper you can read for additional details, and they're also on X and Telegram.

5. PlayDoge (PLAY) – High Staking Rewards Offered by Top Play-to-Earn Shitcoin

PlayDoge is drawing in players with a fresh take on a popular trend from the '90s. Its play-to-earn (P2E) mobile application presents a novel investment possibility in which users acquire $PLAY tokens through in-game activities. Coined with the $PLAY token, it is based on the Binance Smart Chain. In this virtual pet care and minigames game, users take on the role of Doge avatars in a Tamagotchi-style setting, earning tokens as they do so.

With an estimated $24.4 million in the bank, the presale is offering half of the 9.4 billion total supply across 40 rounds. Each token is currently worth $0.00528 and will end up being worth $0.00539 in the final round. Early interest is positive, as evidenced by the robust community engagement. A yearly staking yield of 77% is now available on PlayDoge.

For crypto portfolio diversifiers seeking something fresh and strong, PlayDoge is a great option thanks to its innovative concept, supportive community, and planned development.

How to Choose Best Shitcoin?

Every investor has to ask themselves if shitcoins are a good fit for their investing objectives. In such case, putting your money into shitcoins could be a smart move. All we can do is point out a few things that work for shitcoins.

Since shitcoins can see rapid price gains, the main advantage is the chance of extremely big profits. The low entry cost is another perk that allows you to buy a lot of coins with a little expenditure. Investors seeking portfolio diversification without substantial financial commitments may find this attractive. When the low entrance price of shitcoins turns into large price gains, they could be a good investment.

Having no real worth in the long run makes them easy targets for pump-and-dumps, in which prices skyrocket for a brief time before crashing. Consequently, you should exercise extreme caution when investing in shitcoins and determining the optimal time to cash out your gains.

Never discount the influence of wit and viral marketing; after all, some of the most promising cryptocurrencies to invest in with performance in mind have turned out to be shitcoins.

Backing from the Community enormous community support and subsequent public awareness were crucial factors in the enormous rallies of coins like DOGE and SHIB. In an effort to entice more investors, the communities bragged about their coins and said they were the next big thing.

Dogecoin and Shiba Inu delivered huge returns to investors, proving that the hoopla around these coins was true. More investment and speculation ensued when major media outlets started covering them.

Famous People's Support

Some famous people receive financial incentives to promote products or services to their large online followings through social media.

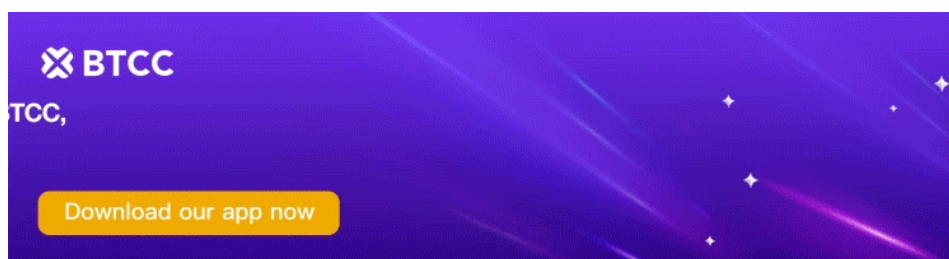

For instance, Dogecoin's price soared in 2020 and 2021 thanks to Elon Musk's enthusiastic support, which he demonstrated through a series of tweets and statements that his companies would accept DOGE. The price surged in the days leading up to his Saturday Night Live performance, and then it dropped precipitously once he appeared.

News that Musk will acquire Twitter (now X) and suspicion that he might integrate DOGE as a payment option on the social media site caused the price to rise again after months of decline. Another price spike occurred in 2023 as a result of an April Fool's joke in which Musk briefly substituted a Shiba Inu puppy for the X logo. Due to speculation that Musk will integrate cryptocurrency into X, the price of Dogecoin soared in March 2024, doubling its value.

Conclusion

Our comprehensive assessments cover all the bases, including a hand-picked list of shitcoins, where to get them, and how much they're worth in the market. We looked each every asset and came up with Pepe Unchained as the top shitcoin to buy in 2024.

The Ethereum L2 chain is the foundation for the new shitcoin Pepe Unchained. Staking benefits for $PEPU token holders are considerable, and the platform claims to lower transaction costs.
