Decentraland's Price Forecast in 2022

Decentraland (MANA) recently ended at $5.90 in 2021, breaking its historical high again. Due to this fluctuation, the price of MANA has fluctuated greatly in recent years.

Since its launch, MANA has attracted the attention of the cryptocurrency community because it provides different functions and technologies in the blockchain world. For example, JPMorgan Chase is the first leading bank to build a virtual space in Decentraland (MANA). So, according to experts, what is the price forecast of Decentraland (MANA) in 2022?

Do You Know Decentraland?

In order to create a virtual reality platform, Ariel Meilich and Esteban Ordano established Decentraland (MANA). In 2019, the closed beta version of Decentraland was released, and the public beta version was launched in late February 2020. Since then, our world has been different, and people can immersively explore and customize their virtual life on the platform.

As a virtual reality platform, Decentraland depicts a life simulation in which users can own real estate and conduct virtual exploration, interaction and game playing at the same time. Like sandbox, Decentraland is essentially designed as a virtual world application, which aims to create a decentralized meta world based on blockchain.

There are at least 90601 lands in Decentraland, and each land is represented by an NFT ERC-721. Decentraland enables users to monetize land in various ways: renting, holding events, or applying for tickets for people who want to enter land. In addition, users can earn MANA tokens by casting and trading NFT items in Decentraland market.
